When I Feed My Baby

It seems like giving him actual health-watching his cheeks grow pink, watching his little arms and legs fill out and dimple, watching him sleep better and smile oftener as he grows stronger and takes a firmer grip on life. It was our old doctor who said, "Try Nestle's. You know he must have milk in some form-and Nestle's is a food made out of pure milk, only the curds of the milk are broken up and made easier to digest.

"It has already added to it just the right amount of cereal-just the right amount of sugar. It comes to you a clean, fluffy powder in an air-tight tin -all you have to do is add water and boil. There are none of the germ dangers of raw milk -it is the nearest thing I know to mother's milk itself." And now I love to feed my baby with those warm, full bottles of the food that have taken away fear from my heart.

My "Come-Again" Sunday Supper

In the old days I would have called it meat loaf. You know—a couple of pounds of finely chopped lean beef and one of chopped pork— seasoned and baked in a buttered bread pan, molded around three or four hard-boiled eggs, laid end to end. But we don't call it meat loaf any more. You see we add to the of Al Sauce-and that makes all the difference in the world, turning "meat loaf" into what we call our come again" Sunday supper.

It's delicious hot—and even better cold. Jim doesn't know it, of course, but most of my reputation as a cook comes out of my bottle of A1 Sauce. I call it my miracle worker!
